

Weekly Citizen

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE COUNTY.
Edited at Board Game Waterfall, Cheyenne,
Post Office.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY.

Terms of Subscription:

Daily to individuals	$1.00
Daily to news-magazines	10c
Daily to mail three months	1.50
Daily to mail one month	.50
Published in city by current issue week	1.00
Weeks in mail	.25

Airmail postage made payable on application at office of publication.

OFFICE—No. 10 West Grand Avenue,
Address, THOS. HUGHES, Publisher.

CHEQUEROLE, DECEMBER 16, 1893

From the Daily December 15.

Bellows Falls, Vt., in the trial of the case against Fox Star Laundry of Mass.

The Citizens learned this afternoon that the following premises and charges will take effect at the Wells Fargo offices: a speed of fifteen miles to allow for running.

H. H. Hatch, who has been the official route agent for the past year, is transferred to San Francisco, Calif., being joined to a speed of fifteen miles to allow for running.

H. H. Hatch, who has been the official route agent for the past year, is transferred to San Francisco, Calif., being joined to a speed of fifteen miles to allow for running.

Henry Smith, of the Aztec, Chetco company of Atchison, was accompanied by G. W. Farnum, who came from the west this morning, and both arrived at the European. H. J. Nichols, of Nichols, was also in the city.

Col. K. H. Nichols, of the firm of Robbins, Nichols & Seven, N.Y., landed a lot of sheep at Magdalena today. Mr. Nichols in the past few days has shipped out of the territory several thousand sheep.

Mrs. E. Wilson, of New York, a lady who left home last February and has visited the principal cities of the north and west, now on her way home, arrived in the city last night from El Paso, and is at the Arctic.

W. E. Scott, a big cattle buyer of Peoria, Kansas, who recently purchased the cattle of W. S. Hopewell, has returned from the cattle. He left this morning for the south and expects to pass through the city in a few days with a train load of cattle.

Dr. W. T. Strickland, one of the veterans of the territory, came over to the new town from the west, and this morning for the past week the doctor has been confined to his room with biliousness, but is mending slowly under the invigorating sunshine.

Prof. Chas. E. Hughes and wife, family of this city, now of Denver, are in the city and are registered at the Windsor. The professor was one of the earliest teachers at the Methodist college when it was in existence. For the past few months he has been in bad health.

Mrs. Steery, the excellent wife of Judge Steery, counsellor for the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad company, returned last night from the north. During her absence from the city she visited St. Louis, Kansas City, and her old home at Emporia, Kansas. She reports the weather very cold in Kansas.

Miss Agnes J. Beattie, sister of H. S. Beattie, formerly of the First National of this city, and Ulysses S. Stewart were married in El Paso, Texas, the other day. Mr. Beattie is now the efficient cashier of the First National bank of El Paso, and his new brother-in-law, is the assistant cashier. The Citizens send congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, and wish them a long and happy married life.

Frank Clark Dead.
Just as this paper goes to press, it is learned that Frank Clark, who came here a few months ago from Missouri, died at 2:30 o'clock at the Porter ranch above the city from congestion of the lungs. Dr. Winslow has telegraphed the sad news to the father of the deceased at Marshalltown, Iowa.

Both Sick.

A few days ago J. Tierney, brother of Martin Tierney, had a piece of steel fly into his right eye while at work in the machine shop of the Atlantic & Pacific. The eye was dressed this morning, and the attending physician states that the eye will be all right in a short time. Martin Tierney, the well known boiler maker, is also on the sick list. He has the grip.

Buried This Afternoon.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon in Las Vegas T. Clegg, the dead president of the New Mexico Fish and Game Protective association, was buried. He was a man well liked by every member of the association, and they naturally feel the loss very keenly. The members here, Drs. Bledsoe, Arthur and Charles Henry, Jas. Martin, Robert Kruse, Joe Barnett and others speak of the deceased in the highest terms, and say that, although a Las Vegan, he treated everybody alike and made a most excellent presiding officer of the association.

The Doherty Murder.

The Las Vegas Optic learns from Moira that when John Doherty was shot he was reading a newspaper, with two of his small children sitting one on each knee. This shows how deliberate the aim of the assassin was, who rested his pistol on the frame of the window, which filled the upper half of the door of the office. He could not have been more than eight feet from his victim. But for the arm of the murdered man, the bullet would have gone straight to the heart. As the arm was raised the ball passed directly through it, breaking the bone and splitting a small sliver from the ball, which was also carried into the body, making two openings on the left side, creating the impression before the autopsy that two balls had been fired; but the autopsy demonstrated that one of the holes in the side was made by the bullet and the other by the silver. Death did not result immediately. When shot is exchanged "They are killing me." His little twelve year-old son immediately seized a pistol and cocked it, when his father said "Don't shoot." The boy, pistol in hand, rushed out at the door, and gave the alarm. When asked what had occurred, the deceased replied, "Custer came home." His last words were, "Let me die in peace." The people of Moira are not very excited, and as every hand speaks some generous qualities of the deceased. It is understood among Mr. Doherty's immediate friends that some time ago he expected assassination, but into the idea of death would come in mind that he seemed to have passed from his mind. That he was even yet sick is indicated by his remark at the moment of shooting, "We are one step peep in the portal." In a moment the fatal shot was fired.

Changes at Wells Fargo.

The Citizens learned this afternoon that the following propositions and changes will take effect at the Wells Fargo offices: a speed of fifteen miles to allow for running.

H. H. Hatch, who has been the official route agent for the past year, is transferred to San Francisco, Calif., being joined to a speed of fifteen miles to allow for running.

K. J. Nichols, the popular and competent agent, is promoted to route agent for the division, while Hatch is given to San Francisco.

C. H. Young, the assistant divisional superintendent, will fill his old position and that of the company's agents agent here.

It is thought that these will prove beneficial to the financial interest of H. H. Hatch, who is also deserving of promotion.

The Citizens is personally acquainted with the gentlemen mentioned, and as they are competent and worthy, congratulates them upon their deserved promotion.

The Dog Catcher Out.

This afternoon at two o'clock, Robert Parker, a small citizen of the Union section of the Second Street, is a debonair, elegant-looking young man, present to measure strength with him. He was looking out for a fight, when noticing the dog, he approached him for the purpose of quieting the disturbance induced by the dog. George was about to lay hands upon Parker, the latter dashed him across the left cheek with a penknife, causing him to realize that he was in the hands of a tycoon and knew the fellow down, when he gave him a good pounding. The knife struck the flesh on the neck of the left side and the mark is visible at least five inches. Strange to say, the wound is only skin deep, and after being plastered up George started out after the poor canine. Marshal Dodd and Police Officer French arrested Parker, and he will be tried by Justice Lockhart tomorrow morning.

Another Fire at Wellington.

C. B. Colby, special agent for the Colorado Fire insurance company, headquarters at Denver, Colo., came up from Kingston, N. M., last night, where he had been adjusting some insurance from the recent fire there. He also stated that Kingston was visited by another fire last Monday morning, in which a large building of seventeen rooms, owned and occupied by A. Barnard, and several out-houses and barns were totally destroyed. This fire entailed a loss of about $10,000, and is the second fire Kingston has had inside of a month. Mr. Colby is here to assist local agent, Ralph Halloran, to investigate into the H. Northern fire at the Coleman house early Wednesday morning.

In Scotland.

About the first of November, Donald Shaw and his sister, Mrs. Wm. Fraser, wife of sheep raiser, Fraser, left the city for their old home in Scotland. They sailed from New York on Nov. 8, and reached Inverness, Scotland, on the 17th. Yesterday, Mr. Fraser received a letter from his wife, in which she states that the trip across the Atlantic ocean was an exceedingly stormy one, and that for two days none of the passengers were allowed on the decks. She also states that she was sick all the way across the ocean, but had recovered her health after reaching Inverness. Mr. Fraser informs the reporter that his wife will not return to Albuquerque before next spring.

Down with the Grip.

Major W. H. Llewellyn, the live stock agent for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road, came up from Deming last evening, and now occupies room 32 at the European, being sick with the grippe. He had been suffering with a cold for the past week, but three days ago it developed into grippe and the major, in consequence, is a very sick man. Dr. Worth was telegraphed to meet the train, and is expected to pull the major through in a few days.

J. Conner, who has been at Gallup for over two months, is here and working for Jas. McCormick, who is putting down a concrete cement sidewalk for Chas. Zeiger.

Mrs. Mary E. Teats and Mrs. Floyd Jarrett were passengers to the city last evening from Socorro. These two ladies are among the worthy temperance workers of the southwest.

G. M. Cundiff, the day mixer at the council, who was taken ill the other day with the grippe, is still confined to his bed. His attending physician states that he will be up in a few days.

J. Billingham, formerly master mechanic for the Gulf, Galveston & Santa Fe road, at Galveston, Texas, passed through the city last night on his way to Grafton, Va., to accept a position on the Baltimore & Ohio.

Chas. Leitcham, formerly of the So. Ororo Chisham, now of the Stock Grower and Farmer, Las Vegas, came up from the south last evening, remained long enough to eat a square supper, and continued on to Las Vegas.

Foot-Ball Game.
At midnight, Tuesday night, Dwight Wheeler, who resides adjoining the residence of H. Halbeck, discovered a fire in the yard of the latter, but the blaze was soon extinguished with several buckets of water. During Tuesday the family cleaned up the yard and set fire to the rubbish, late in the afternoon Mr. Halbeck told his children to put out the fire, and they attempted to do so, but it seems a few sparks remained and the blaze was started afresh. It was a timely discovery, for a portion of the fence was burned and the blaze was getting a good headway.

Lieut. C. G. Sawtelle, Jr., of the United States army, was in the city yesterday and attended the dance at the Commercial club last night. He was east on a leave of absence, and left this morning for his post of duty at Fort Wingate.

F. B. Sutton, the competent stenographer for Sup. Gabel, of the Atlantic & Pacific, left this morning for Urbana, Ill., to attend the marriage of his sister, Miss

THE FIRE.

At the Hotel Explosives and a Pretty Residence Burned.

This morning at 6:45 o'clock, an alarm of fire was sounded, and upon investigation the pretty two-room adobe residence of Al Coleman, situated on his mother's cow's ranch, Mrs. Amanda Romero, at the corner of Seventh street and just beyond the city limits, was discovered to be burning.

The No. 2 fire company and Ferguson, Hawk and Ladd company, under Assistant Chief Mandell, went to the scene, but beyond putting out the framework of the logs and wind-walls, could render no further assistance toward saving the building.

The house was occupied by H. Nolden, and he stated that between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning he was aroused from his sleep by being almost suffocated from smoke. He then left the house and came into the city, stopping at the Scott Music company, where he told forearm Knight that his house was on fire. Mr. Knight questioned him in regard to the nearest hydrant, and on finding that the building building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.

While he was there the fire became uncontrollable, and the building could not be reached with water saw no occasion to send an alarm. Mr. Nolden then went over to the Arizona house, where he remained until after 6 o'clock and then, with a friend, returned to the fire.